Abstract	III
Resumen	V
Resumen	VII
1. Introduction	1
1.1. Hypothesis, research questions and objectives	4
1.1.1. Hypothesis	4
1.1.2. Specific research questions and objectives	4
1.2. Structure	6
2. Background	9
2.1. Understanding chronic conditions from a temporal perspective	9
2.1.1. Chronic diseases and risk factors	9
2.1.2. Risk Models: obtaining insight and information from data	11
2.1.3. Risk models limitations	12
2.1.4. Standardisation of risk models	13
2.2. Towards a white-box approach	14
2.3. Towards a new definition for risk models	16
3. Materials and Methods	19
3.1. Interactive approach	19
3.2. Process Mining	20
3.2.1. Process Mining: extracting knowledge from EHR	22
3.2.2. Interactive Process Mining	24
3.3. Process Mining tools	25
3.4. Towards the Interactive paradigm	27
4. Modelling a medical condition with Process Mining	29
4.1. The need for a new behavioural view of risk models	29
4.1.1. Towards a Data Science framework for Dynamic Risk models: Process Mining & Trace Clustering	30
4.2. Approaching Dynamic Risk Models	32
4.2.1. Dynamic Risk Model for malnutrition	33
4.3. A novel perspective on Risk Models	45

5. Dynamic Risk Models with PM applied to chronic conditions	49
5.1. Dynamic Models Supporting Chronic Disease Management	49
5.1.1. Experiment framework	50
5.1.2. Dynamic Risk Model for Hyperglycemia	53
5.1.3. Dynamic Risk Model for Hypertension	59
5.2. Towards a common framework	67
6. Towards a formal methodology for obtaining Dynamic Risk Models	69
6.1. Towards a new approach for analysing risk models	69
6.1.1. Question based methodology	72
6.2. Interactive and question based methodology for deploying Dynamic Risk Models	74
6.3. Putting into practise the proposed methodology	78
6.3.1. Contributions	88
6.3.2. Limitations	89
7. Conclusions and Future Work	93
7.1. Conclusions	93
7.2. Discussion and Future Work	97
8. Main original contributions	101
8.1. Associated publications	101
8.1.1. Publications in journals	102
8.1.2. Book chapters	103
8.1.3. Conference contributions	103
8.2. Associated projects	105
8.3. Contributions to the objectives	107
Bibliography	111
