ABOUT YOU

You found the eplepsydra going through your father's belongings after his passing. Not knowing how he came into its possession, you still feel an urge to help, so you leave your job as an attorney to visit the premises years later and investigate what happened back then, to help your partner.

Week 1.

The lab is finally set up, so I believe our work will begin shortly. I am quite content with this state of affairs: my benefactors are as excited as I am, and choosing my assistants was swift and easy. I cannot think of encountering any administration problems either, so I am more hopeful than I thought I'd be. I decided to start registering our weekly progress using this log, which I suppose will be helpful in retrospect as I delve into my research. I am quite nostalgic, after all, and will enjoy seeing the varying progress. Anyway, even though we have not begun working yet, I did get a chance to explain my theories at the college where I recruited my assistants, to much excitement from the crowd.

We are quite eager to find out where this all takes us, and I see incredible possibilities everywhere I look. I find myself thinking that maybe, one day, people will look back to these hopeful beginnings and wonder how there could be a world where such developments had yet to begin.

ABOUT YOU

As Joe's assistant, you developed the CLEPSYDRA with him and share his work and passion, even though his latest research has proved to be a tad erratic. Your job is to examine the current events and find clues as to dismantle with your actions the plans of his rivals and foes.

Oh, my son... It has been so long, you cannot imagine how glad I was to receive your letter. I have attempted to contact you so many times during these last few years... It was always on the back of my mind, as my lab, research, and resources grew, and I tried to make use of them to find you, to no avail.

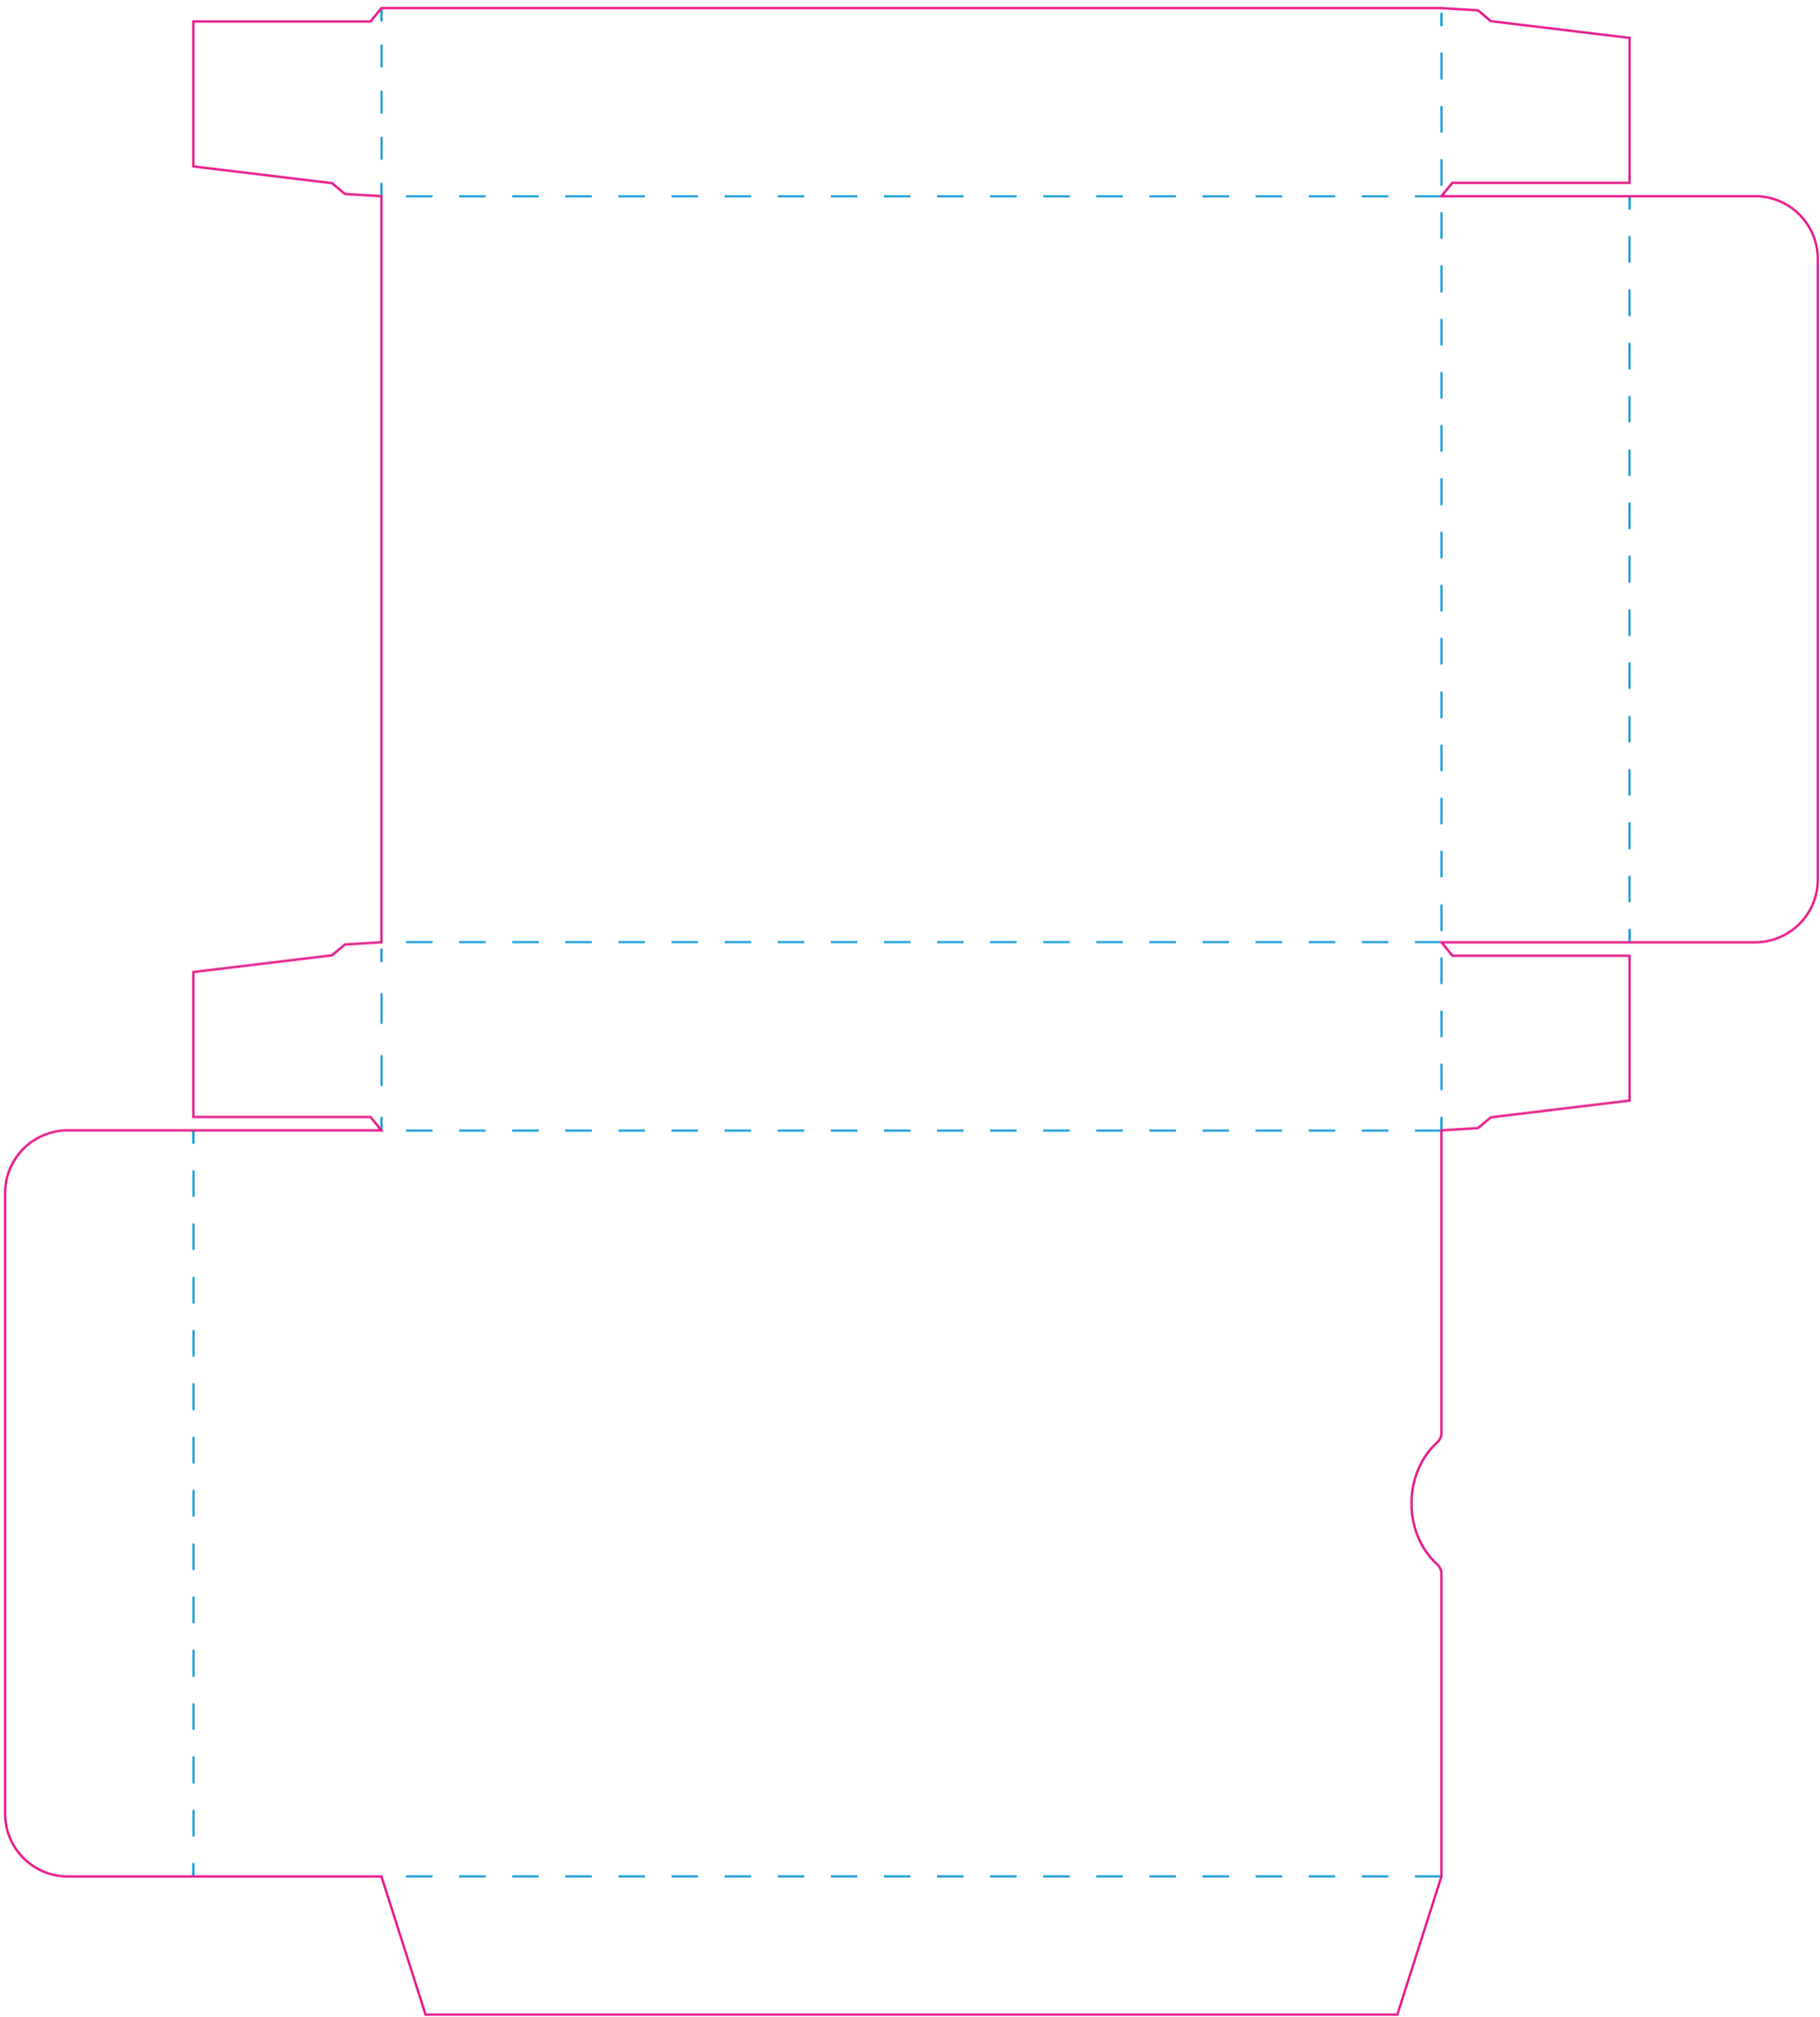

I never quite thought that you could come back to me, not after how I treated you, but I have always meant to make things right, for I am sorry, see. And I am aware that I am in no position to be called your father after this distance, this lack of a relationship I forced upon you, but I would like to support you in any way I can, now.

I will never seek compensation, not your care or love, and know that for me, this is a small price to pay if it will give me a chance to have a family in my life again. However, do not think of this as me begging for forgiveness, I will only want that of your own accord and true goodwill. But please, do write to me again, and come visit whenever you are free. I will receive you with open arms. Best regards, Joe Roberts

CASE 3: A STRANGE FAITH

Welcome back!

Congratulations on successfully saving Joe's life again, but sadly the work isn't over yet, and a new foe has arisen from the shadows.

This time, a suspicious cult is menacing to end Joe's career due to religious fervor and a sacred devotion to timekeeping. You noticed that this sect has a strong connection to music, and most of their rites revolve around tempo and cadence.

You will need to find the notes that form their password in order to infiltrate their innermost chamber, only then will you be able to steal their plans and foil their plot.

Past:

You've sneaked into the Librarian's office and gathered a few pages from his journal. They'll help you decode the puzzles.

Future:

You've arrived to the decayed premises, and found some riddling proof. They contain the clues to find the password.

Need help? Worry not.

General guidance

Each day-double page from past's journal details a puzzle that corresponds to future's cards! Also, pay attention to the symbols in the schedule. Where else do they appear?

Translating

Past! Notice the letters shared by mastER and REquest, which words on the other side of the card share two glyphs switched at the beginning and end? What other patterns or connections can you find?

Map directions

Past has a word search puzzle, you need to find the STARTing point. Future must begin from the compass star in his map and follow the directions they'll get from Past's puzzle.

Bookshelves and checkers

This puzzle calls for fitting books in empty spaces. When you insert the string, where does it come out? Can you establish a pattern between the checkered tiles nearby that point and the acolytes' dances?

*Today I begun work on my engraving.
I intend to make a small piece in our colors, with the shape of our crest.*

*It may be kept as a memento or used as an emblem for our creed; "May the light of wisdom remain at the center of it all,
may it set apart darkness from flames."*

*The workshop had been tidied up recently, so I hate to leave the unfinished and discarded pieces all over my bench. I hope
I may finish my work on it tomorrow.*

JOURNAL

Last year's memoir proved very useful in recording our activities for later examination, so I have decided to pick up a personal diary in order to have a more sincere introspection.

Today's schedule:

- ▣ Study runes
- Verify the floor plans
- ◇ Correct Master Judge portrait
- ♠ Emblem workshop
- ▣ Stroll through the cloister
- △ Scripture decoding

4

friday

The way to our accommodations through the courtyard is always refreshing.

These days, I have spotted the rehearsal of our rites as I strolled through the cloister. I shall memorize the paths followed by the acolytes, in order to I myself guide them through the Checkered Tiles someday.

Their dances follow these patterns:

16	24	19	2	11
39	36	45	14	32	6	32
19	30	38	41	51	30	9	19	28
40	42	34	27	28	11	10	1

I have finally found a place for the Secret Tomes, one of each color. It goes like this:

One must be encircled by three different kinds of books and an empty space.

One mustn't be in a shelf with more than two types of books, nor a column with two or more books of the same color together.

One must go in the spot wherein its shelf and column together have the same amount of books of each color.

One must be three spots away and one to the side from the first one, and contain every color in its shelf and column.

I shall place them tomorrow according to these rules, with hope that being amidst other tomes will keep them safe.

The Judge's hall has finally been updated, and I have to say, the new painting of our current Master Judge is truly beautiful.

Surprisingly, it reminds me of how excited I was to come across Their Fairness the Master this morning as I prowled through my shelves in search of what I thought was a lost book.

Their Fairness instantly located it with some truly sharp eyesight. We are truly fortunate for having such an involved leader, even though I did not understand why Their Fairness bothered to come here instead of sending someone...

I find myself appreciative of the new Master's efforts, seeing that my pleas for stricter organization have been heard in the council.

Finally, modesty rules are back in the Order, to focus on our spiritual growth and worldly life. I had always been displeased with the kinds of jewels that past Masters sometimes wore.

I am very curious however about Their Fairness' obsession with clothing, and though I admire Their restraint, I don't understand that disgust toward headgear.. Maybe it is indicative of unfitting attachments, but we will have to see.
